STUDENT LIFE

"CATCH THAT SPOTSY SPIRIT

At an outdoor pep rally in the stadium, students have fun participating in a cheer led by the cheerleaders. What a way to show their school spirit!

Jeff Hall and his friends have fun investigating a pair of sunglasses in the front hall before school.

Lunch is always better when shared with friends. Wayne Parker, Doug Wingfield, and Mike Coyner demonstrate this.

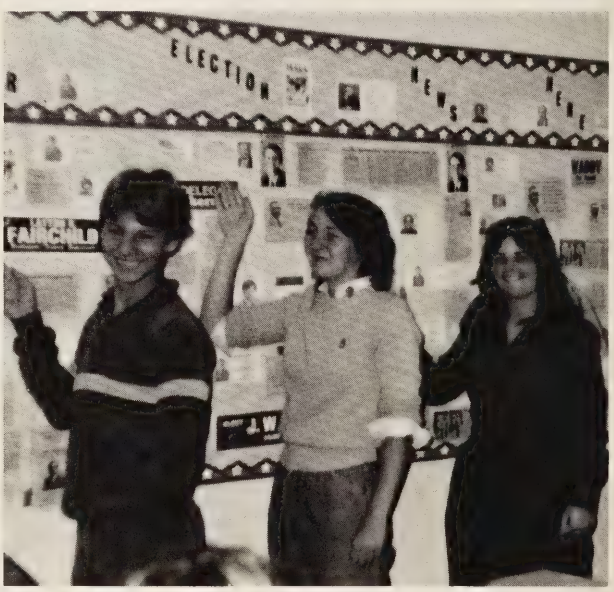
Karen Goodin, Lauren Rutherford and Gary Sundquist enjoy their friendship by telling secrets and having a good laugh while resting from playing tennis.

Dori Chasen and her friends share the adventures of the day while waiting for their bus in the afternoon.

No telling what this group of friends is up to . . .

WITH A FRIEND . . .”

STUDENT LIFE?



Kyle Bennett shows Allison Clark that a hug a day keeps everyone happy, especially him.

Michelle Pontillas and Tim Meeks rest and check out the annual N.H.S. Easter egg hunt after they've finished hiding the eggs.

To prepare for the upcoming election, Jerry, Julie, and Dana examine the candidates.

TAKE A LOOK AROUND!

Going to fifth period class, Jay Rector runs over his homework in his mind.

After successfully reciting Marc Antony's burial speech for Caesar, Redonna Freedman gives an A+ smile to Mrs. Mullins and classmates.

The 1983 Homecoming Court: Jimmy Stretch, Lisa Casey, Willie Washington, Lisa Lane, Wray Broughton, Marti Lewis, Kyle Bennett, Tami Greene, Kim Deale, Pete Kuzma, Elizabeth Kriskovich, Robbie Sprouse, Carol Rabke, Eddie Johnson, Rita Williams, Sidney McCall, Towanna Purks, Mike Walsh, Nicole Reynolds, Jeff McLeod.

"Through the Years" and other top hits were played for those who enjoy dancing.

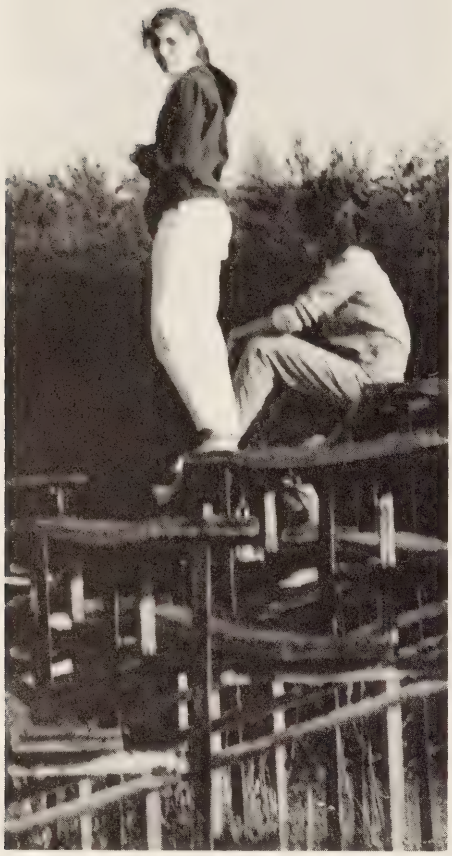
HOMECOMING 1983 . . .

Peni Shumaker and Mike Covert enjoy the refreshments provided by the FHA.

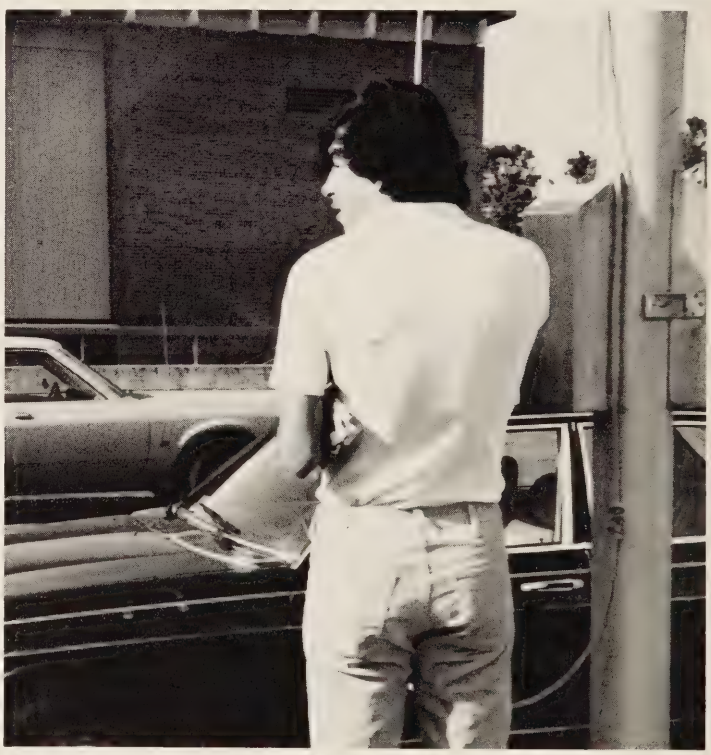
What? Did Glenn Reid lose his date?

Homecoming King and Queen: Pete Kuzma and Kim Deale.
Prince and Princess: Robbie Sprouse and Elizabeth Kriskovich.

THROUGH THE YEARS



Kim Turner looks on after a baseball game.



Shelia and Redeema enjoy their fun-filled morning after, cracking jokes.

Sherri attempts to cut Mrs. Mastin's hair during cosmetology.

Robert Soto raises the flags everyday.

An ice storm did not prevent many from arriving on time.

The Baseball Team relaxes during the seventh inning stretch.

Music by

FIRST CLASS

* * * * *

April twenty-eighth

Nineteen hundred and eighty-four

Ann Carter Lee Ballroom

Time Will Reveal . . .

Entering across the front terrace, Todd Coleman and Eddie Johnson escort their dates to the festivities inside.

A "First Class" . . .

Taken from the terrace, a view of the balcony shows couples out for a breath of air.

Darryl McNeil and his date dance during the night's many festivities.

Senior Mike Mastin and freshman Kelly Sagan display the 1984 fashion. Mike is wearing a white dinner jacket with a pink tie and a cummerbund to match Kelly's dress.

Evening At . . .

A slow dance captures all the couples in a romantic moment.

Amidst the crowd Mike Lucas and his date Liz Brown enjoy a memorable evening.

At this table Michelle Pontillis, Joey Cross and Pam Miller enjoy refreshments and music.

A coat covered table laced with nosegays is the setting for Mike Frankfort, his date, Robin Sawyer, Scott Frary, Terry McIntyre and Greg Benton.

Resting couples sit at tables surrounding the dance floor to watch.

1984 Junior-Senior Prom

Awaiting their dinner, Dominic Dyson and Willie Washington entertain their table with a camera.

In order to have senior privileges, Mike Frankfort and Mike Lucas remember their priorities of getting good grades; therefore, they study every morning in the cafeteria.

BEING A SENIOR . . .

. . . PRIORITIES AND PRIVILEGES

One of Spotsy High's newest senior privileges allows seniors like Doris Banks, Barnedia Talley, Shelia Tyler, and Redeema Syrkes to line up and march in for an assembly.

One of a senior's biggest privileges is the Senior Banquet, and Prisilla Taylor, Stephanie Davis, and Melissa Carroll are having a great time at the 1984 Banquet. The Banquet was held at the Country Club.

SPORTS

THE WINNER'S CIRCLE

Spotsy "gets the jump" in the winner's circle.

Troy Tyler and Thomas Comfort help each other out during a break.

Willie Washington readies himself for a foul shot.

Willie Washington looks to his teammates for support.

Paul Hayden makes a "slam dunk" in the last seconds of the game.

The opposing team and the Spotsy Knights await the coming of the ball.

In the 1983-84 boys' varsity basketball season, the Spotsylvania Knights captured their first ever regular season basketball district championship. This was accomplished with a district record of 16 wins and 1 loss. The overall record was 20 wins and 5 losses. The 20 wins was another school record which dated back to 1953. Not only did the Knights capture the regular season Battlefield championship, but they also won the tournament championship at Culpeper. This was accomplished with victories over Courtland, Orange, and Caroline, making it three victories over each of these schools during the course of the season. In advancing to the regional tournament at Osbourn Park, the Knights defeated Fort Defiance and lost in the semi-finals to Park View by two points.

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY TO PLAY IT . . .

The Girls' Varsity Basketball team encounters no opposition during a play.

Holly Clothier gives her all during a districts meet.

In the last seconds of the game, Otis Byrd finds himself in the clear.

The J.V. team practices tackling while their coach looks on.

Keeping fit is fun to do. Just ask this fellow.

Willy Washington looks on while a dunk shot is made.

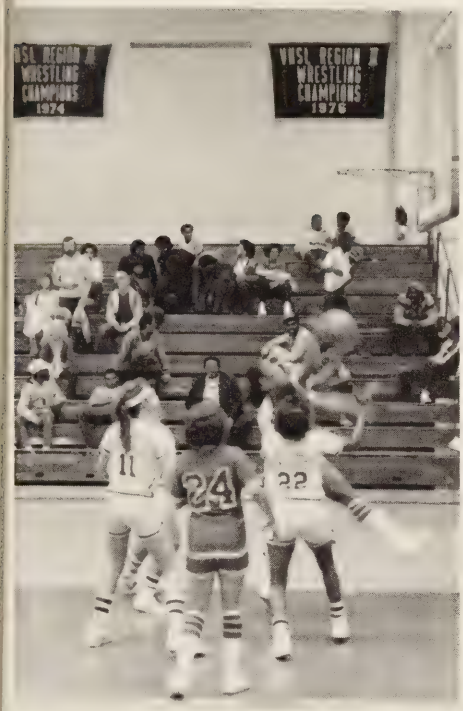
PUTTING OUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

Wayne Blaine tries to stay in shape when the football season is over.

Mr. Bailey, the soccer team's coach, helps out during a practice.

On a crisp fall afternoon, the J.V. team warms up for a scrimmage.

Girls' Basketball rebounds from Culpeper.

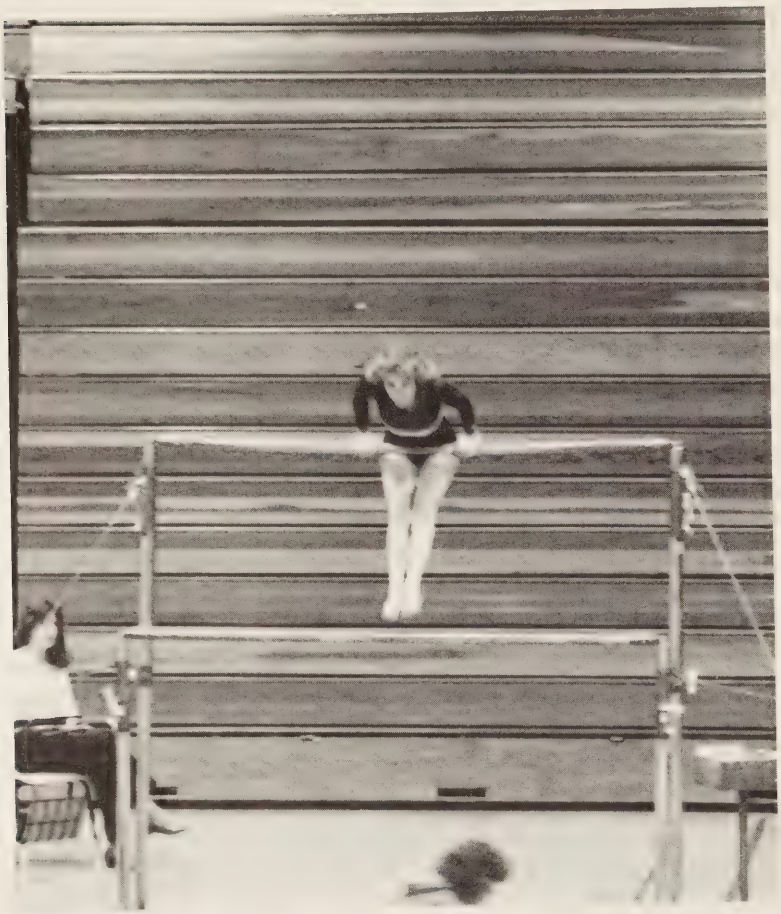


Varsity wrestler Robbie Sprouse has his foe under control.

Football players, John Winn, Pete Bosen, and Mike Frankfort, enjoy a school dinner before a big game.

SPOTSY'S ATHLETES SHAPING UP

Carol Rabke takes a shot at the parallel bars during districts.

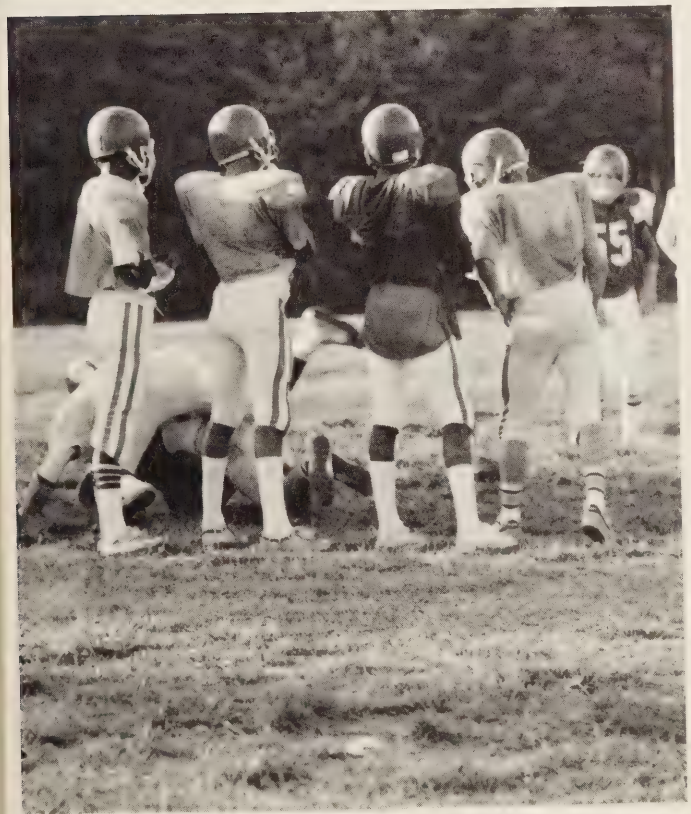


When football season is over, the players try to keep in shape.

Patty Doyle concentrates on beating her opponents.

Freddy Lewis takes his Courtland opponent down.

Sidney McCall warms up for the Hornets.



The J.V. Football team practices tackles in hopes of a successful game.

Like Brian Garrison, the football players prepare for the season all year.

THOSE AMAZING KNIGHTS

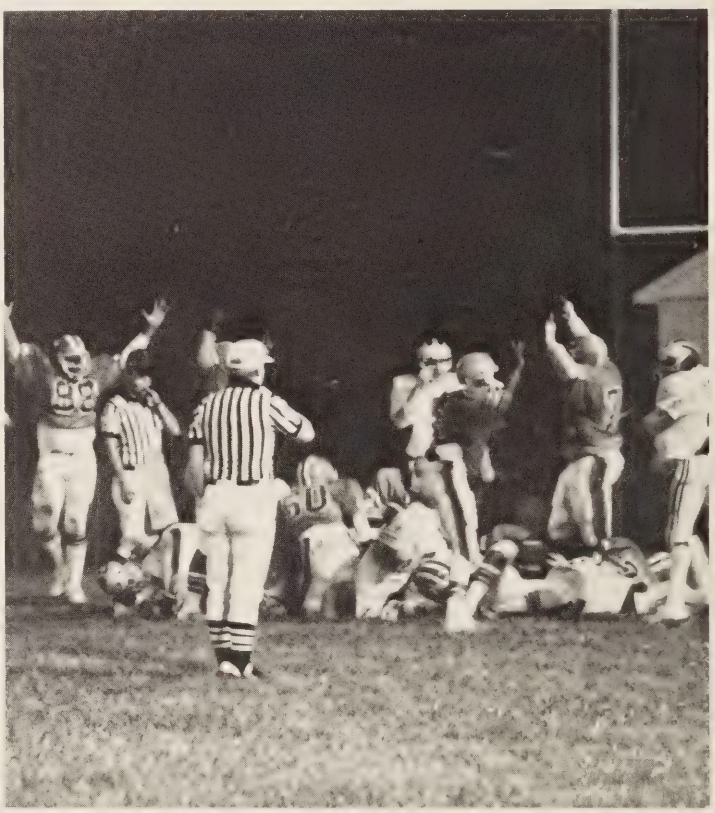
Near the end of a crucial game, the Knights play defensively.

The Knights are in complete control of the ball.



A touchdown in the very first minutes of the game!!!!!!!!!!!!

THE SPORTING LIFE

Troy Deale keeps the ball in play.

Mascot Holly Smith sits atop her horse during half time.

During an important game against the Devils, a foul shot is made which wins the game!

COMING OUT SHINING . . .

Freddy Lewis takes his opponent down.

Dawn Schiller yells to her teammate that she is in the clear.

The J.V. Football team gets ready to break bad.

Amy Smith, Susie Hilderbrand, and Carol Rabke run cross country.

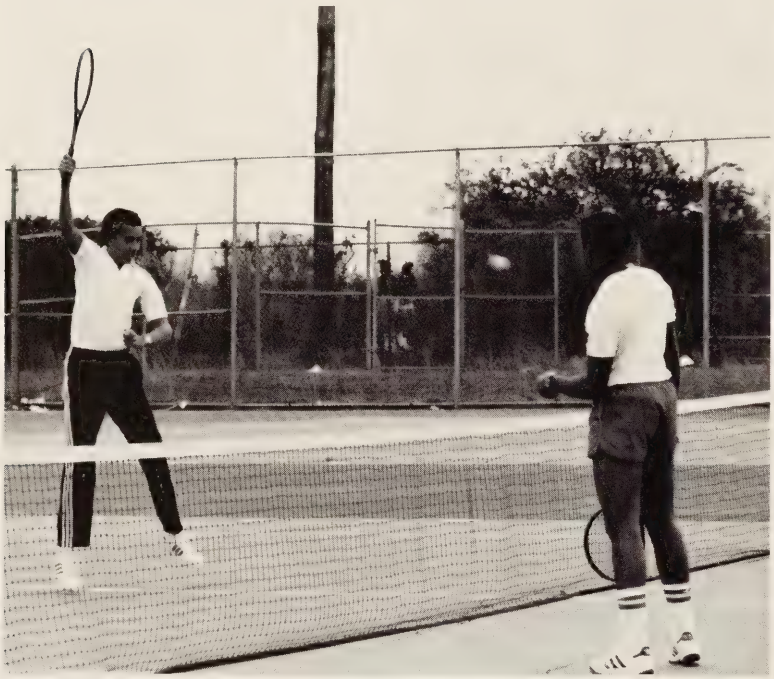
Ricky Nalls looks over his opponent closely.

SHAPING UP FOR SPRING

Toby Fairchild volleys the ball back to his opponent in a doubles match.



Karim Black speedily gains on her Orange opponent.

Former champion discus thrower Scott Frary gives Janet Brown tips.

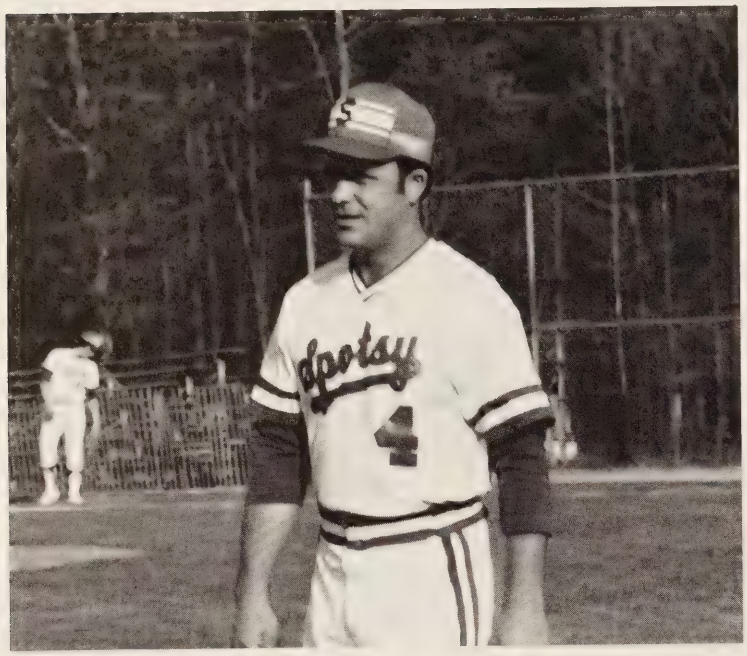
The J.V. Baseball team awaits their turn for the field.

The pitcher Chuck Sperry, the catcher Eddie Johnson, and Coach Lancaster have a discussion during a game.

Joey Cross loosens up before running.

Donald Wheeler slams one over the net.

SPOTSY'S ATHLETES "SPRING" INTO ACTION



Mr. Lancaster, the Varsity Baseball coach, participates in practices.

The J.V. Baseball players walk-over to the field after practice.

The Foxes lose time in the relay, which gives Spotsy's Track team an advantage.

After a bad start, Lisa Carter tries to catch up.

During a game against Culpeper, the J.V. Baseball team gives their all.

Tommy Chamberlin awaits the "put out" at first base.

David Cross struggles through the last few yards.

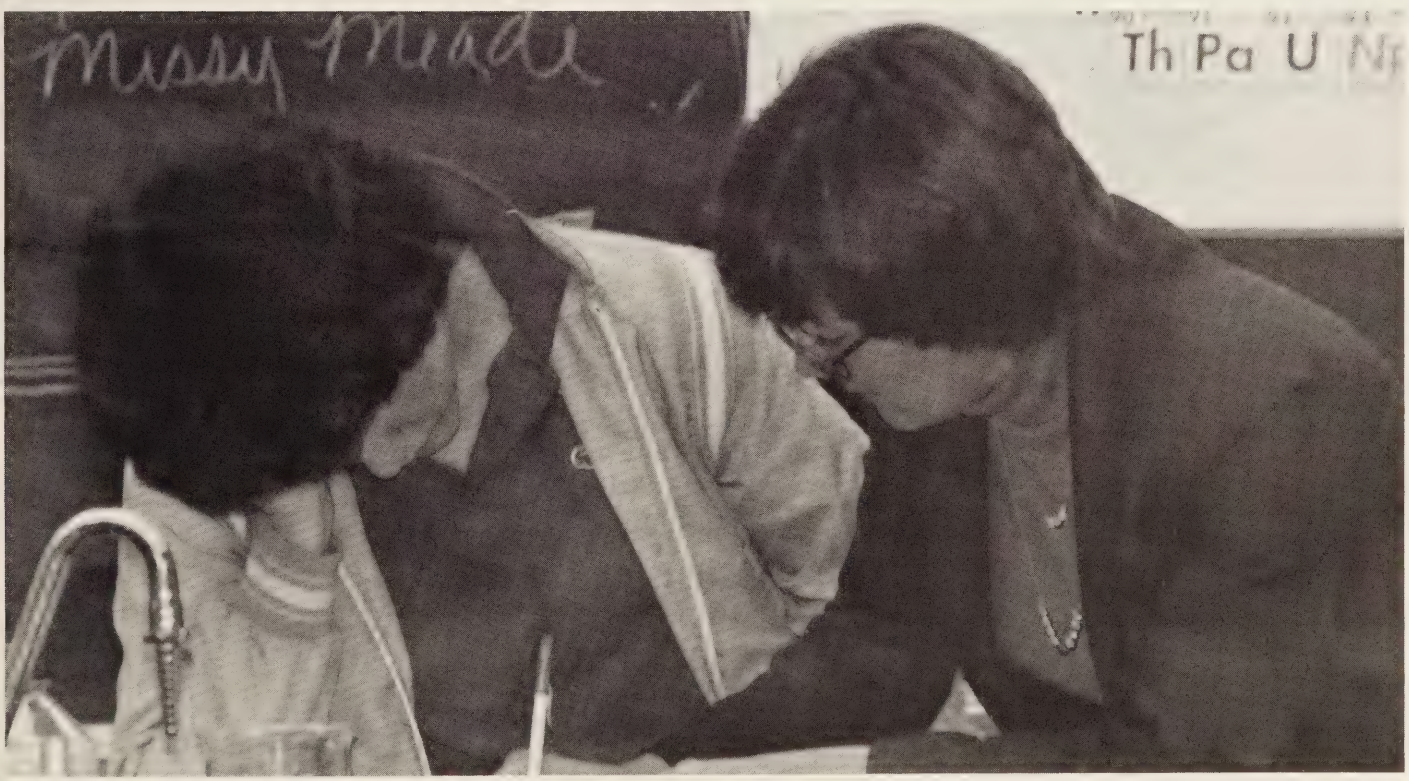
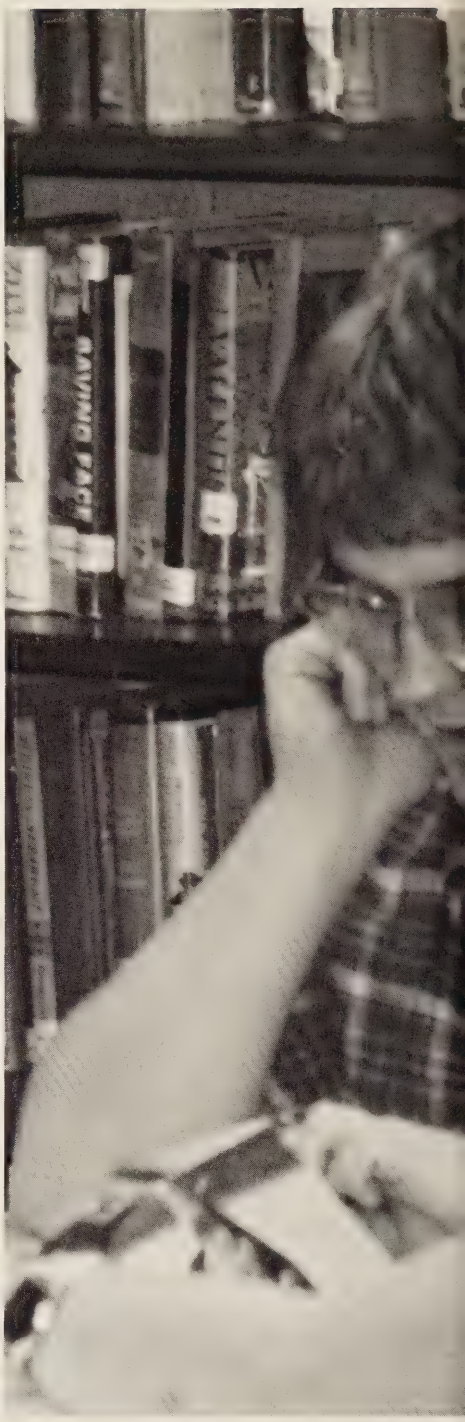
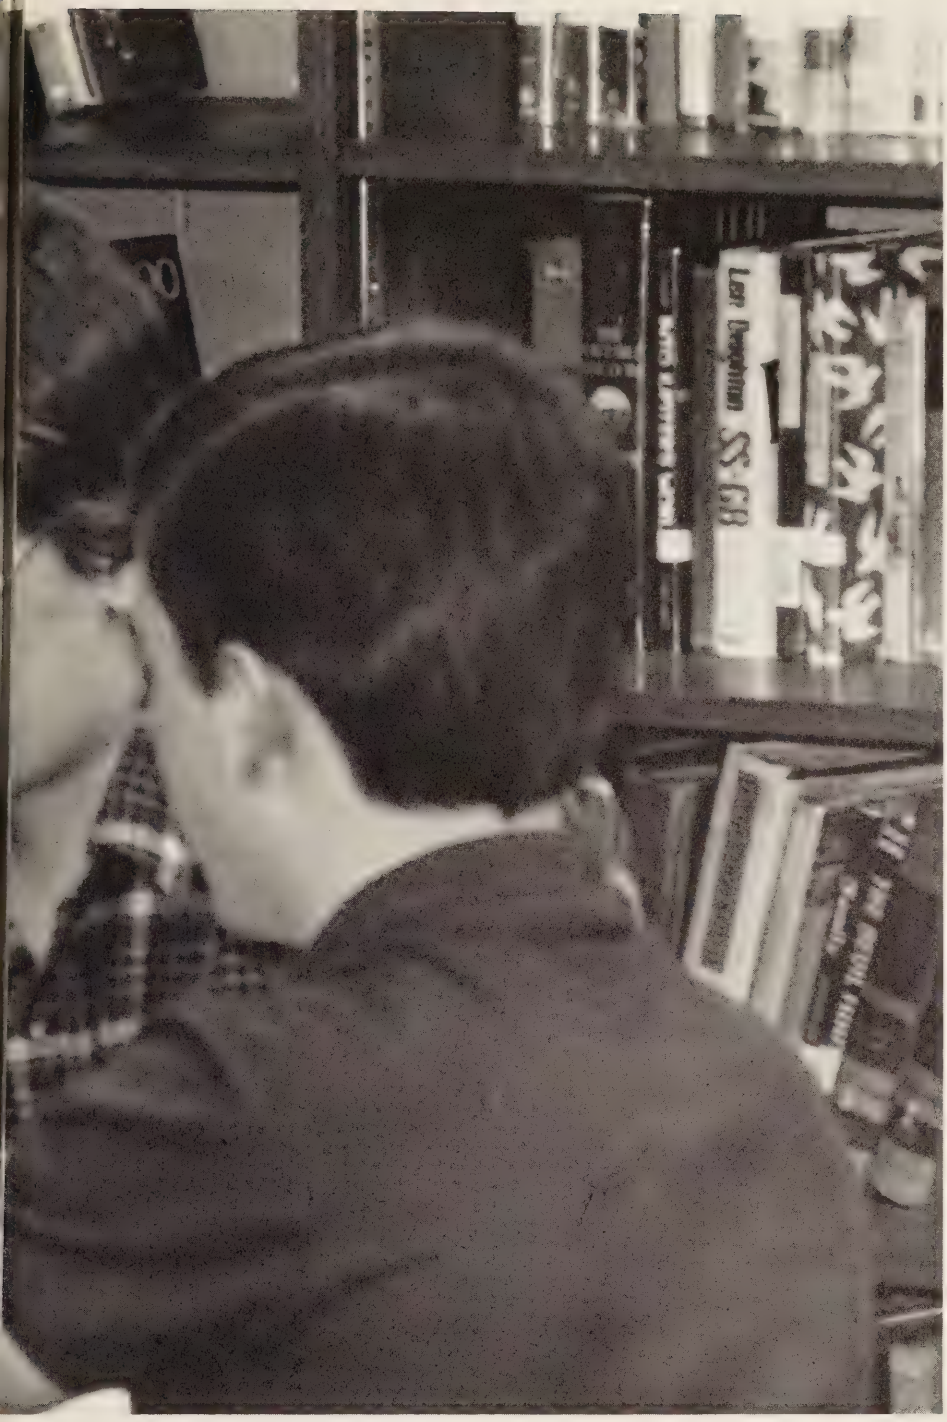
ACADEMICS





ACADEMICS ARE . . .



PEOPLE STUDYING . . .

HOPPY EXPERIENCES . . . AND

WHITE GLOVE OCCASIONS

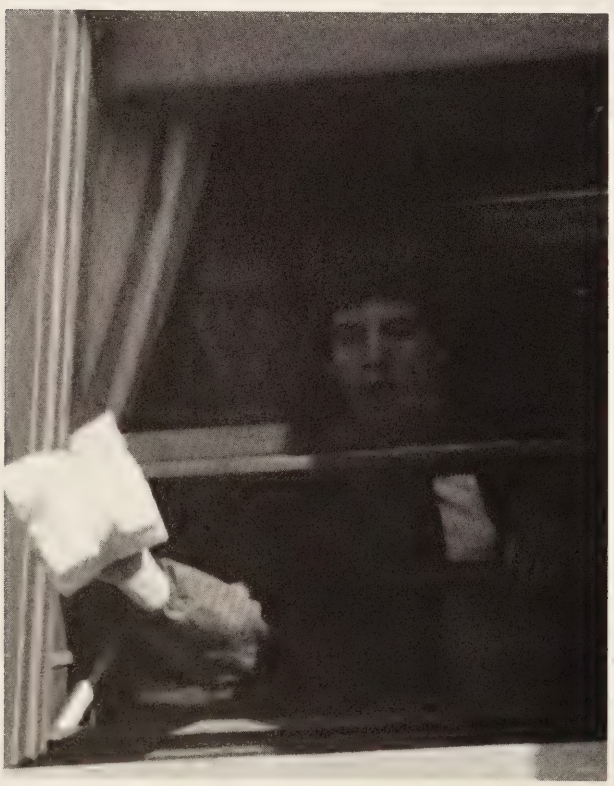
Sophomore biology students, Kevin Perry and Joanne Pizarro, investigate their frog. Obviously, this is much against Joanne's will.

HIGH FLYING ADVENTURE . . . AND

This spring Mrs. Fox's senior physics students were asked to develop an original container that could hold an egg. This container would then be dropped from an elevated height. Most of the eggs survived the drop; however, some were not as fortunate.

Tim Shiflett's egg parachuted to safety; however, it did not survive the crash.

Robby Marquis and other students anxiously wait to drop their eggs.



CRACKING EXPERIENCES . . .

Did it work? Joe Petruzzo and Greg Ventimilla carefully unwrap their eggs to see. Lucky for them; it did work!

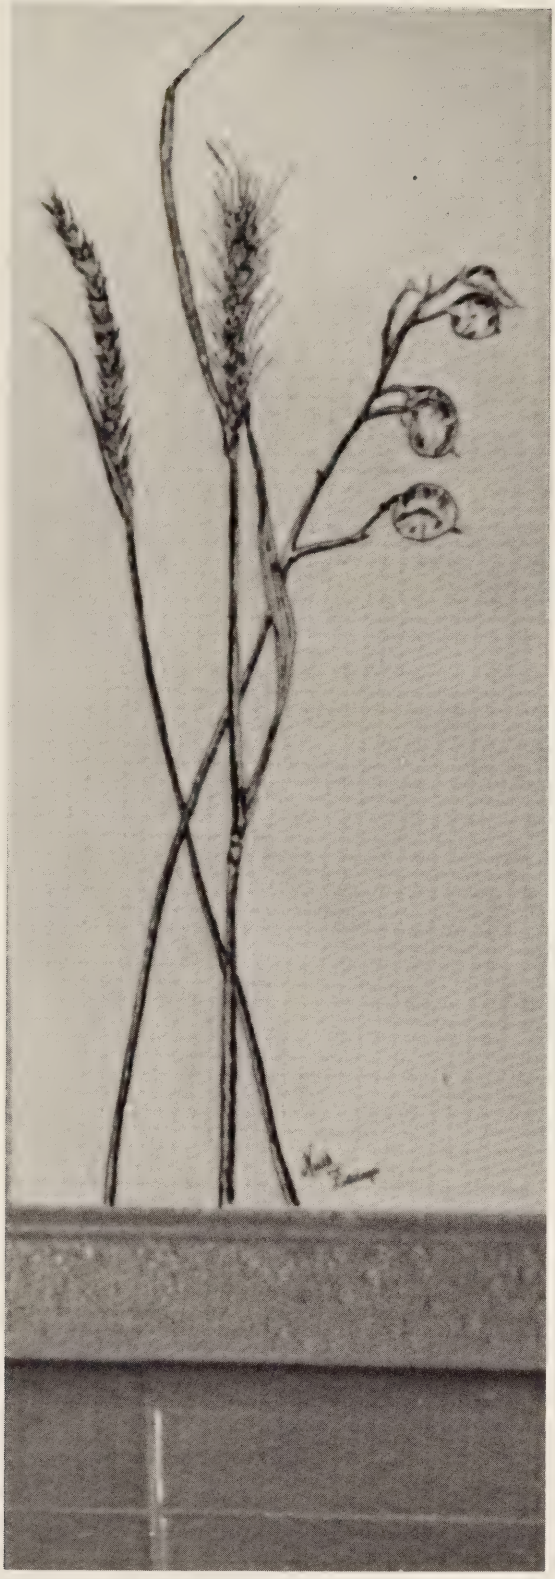
Unfortunately, not all the eggs had happy landings. Carol Rabke's project demonstrates this as it explodes upon impact.

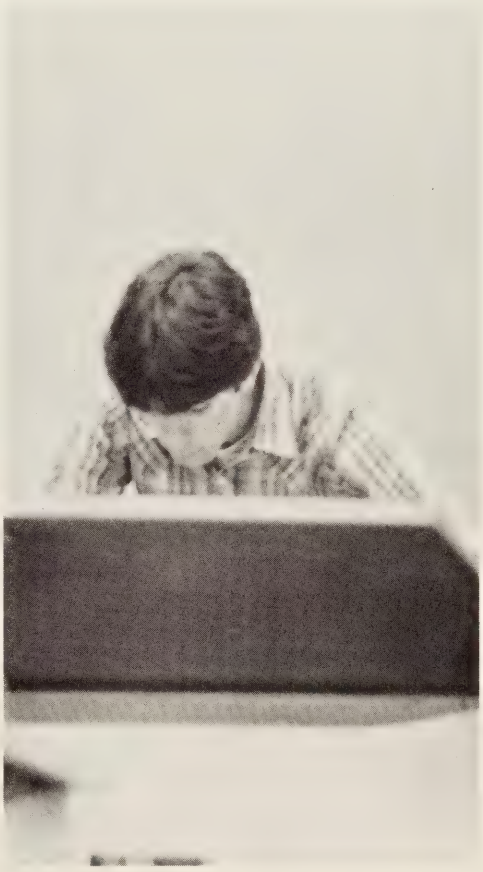
MAD SCIENTISTS

Greg Ventimella and Marieska Weigel etherize fruit flies in a genetic experiment.

Tom Armentrout and Janet Brown carefully mix chemicals in a chemistry lab.

While studying genetics in science seminar, Robert Sawyer and Tim Shifflet work a college level lab.





This natural line in Pen and Ink was created by a budding student artist, Keith Zaccagini.

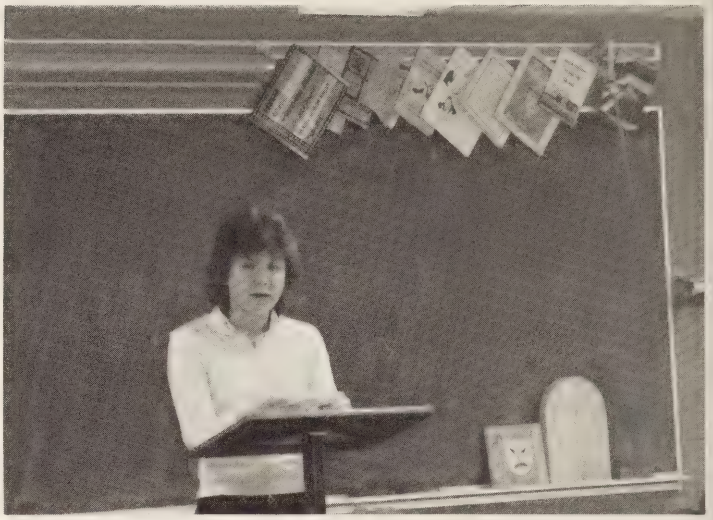
Tina Brown displays her talent while working on an original clay creation.

Drafting allows students to be creative by enabling them to develop plans from their imagination. Jeff Freeman concentrates heavily on his.

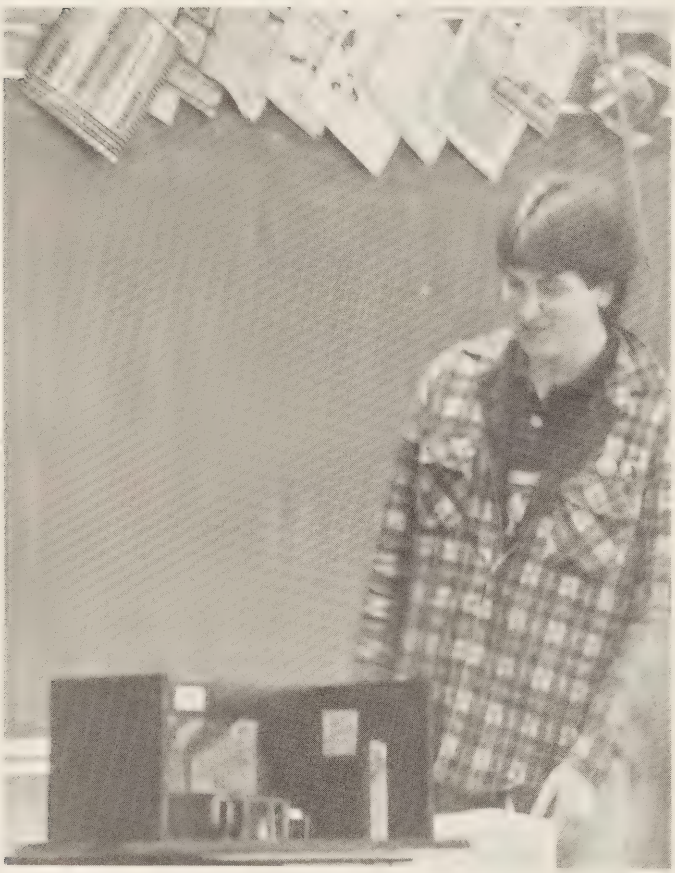
BUDDING PICASSOES

TERM PAPERS AND SPEECHES

Drama class involves a large amount of speaking before others. Jim Ivory shows the class the correct way to present a project.

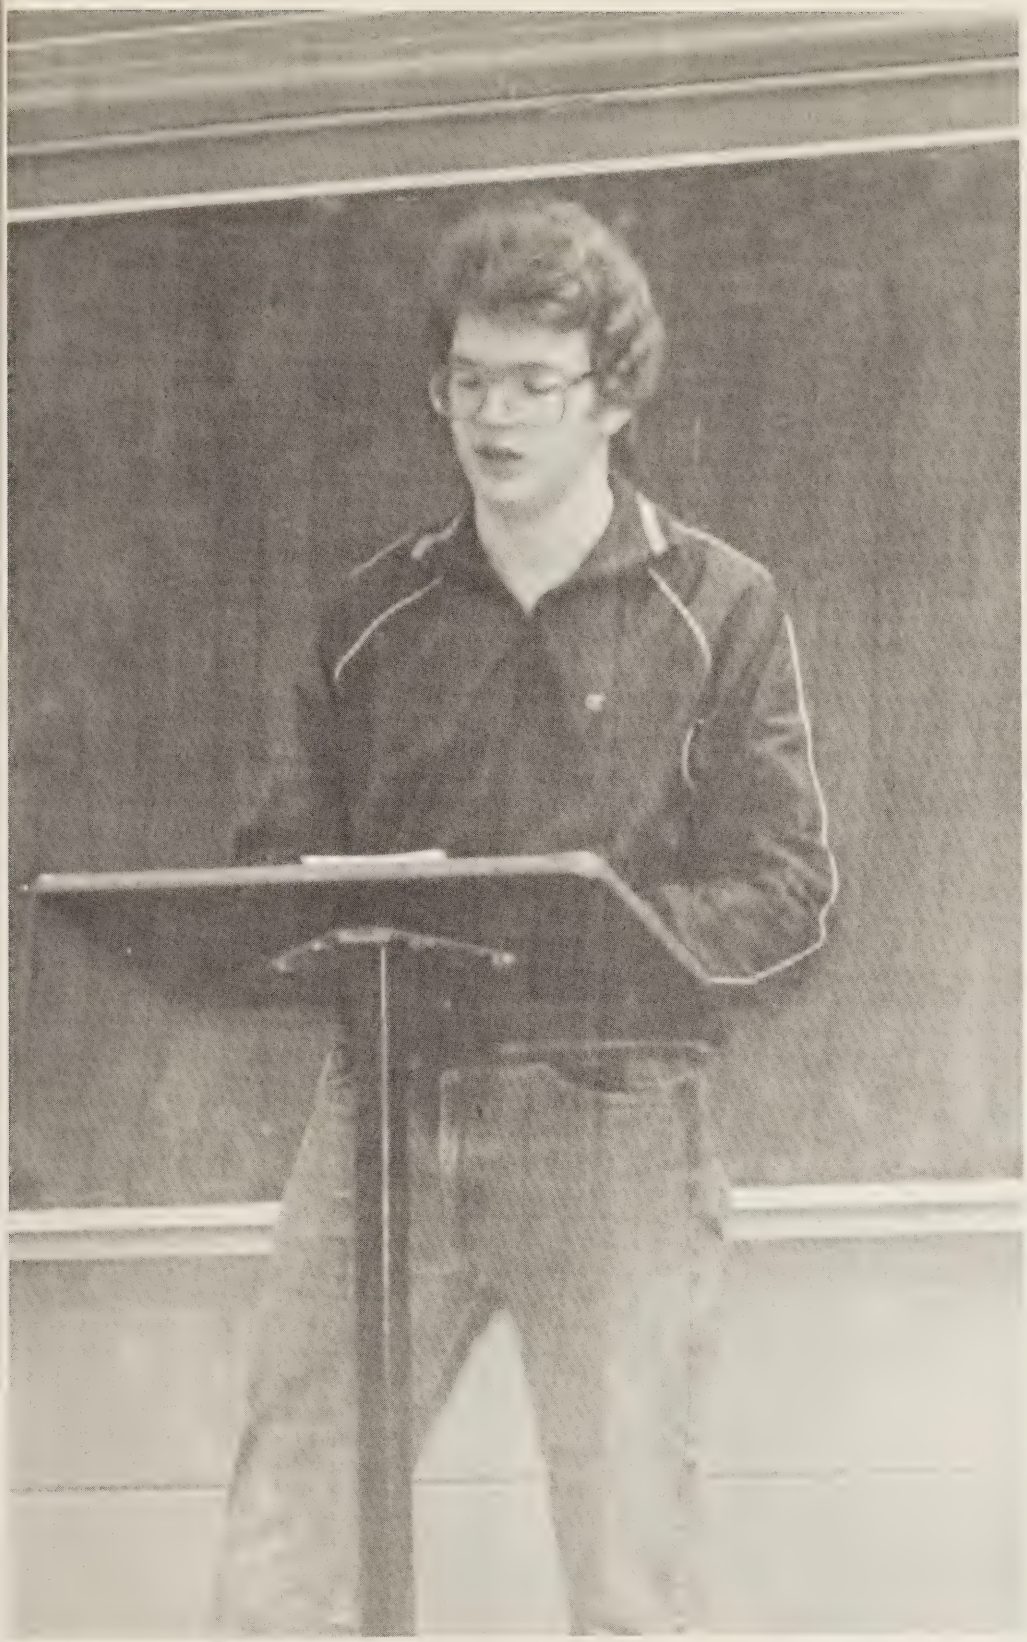


Michelle Prowitt has the class' attention as she delivers one of the many speeches a student must make to receive credit for English.



These students eagerly await the writing of their first term papers as their teacher gives them guidelines.

REMEMBER . . .



Part of the academic life of a high school student involves oral presentations. Here, Mike Hannahs speaks to the drama class.

"PRÉCIS" MAKES PERFECT

W. D. Evans makes his mark during the standing broad jump.

"LEAPING LIZARDS" . . . AND

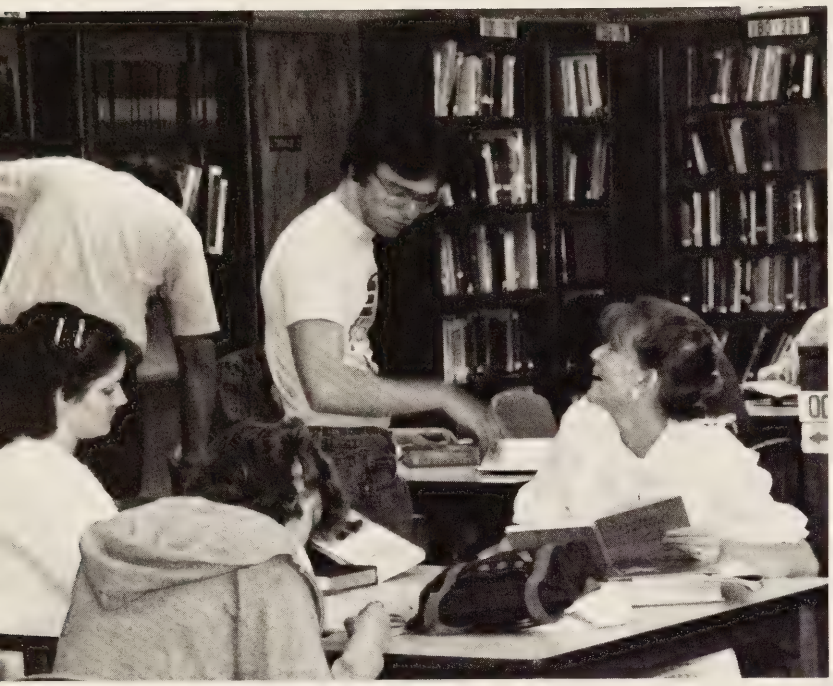
And they're off! Two tenth grade gym students rush to the finish of the 50-yard dash.

What! Jocks in a tenth grade gym class?

Cut off jeans, Converse tennis shoes, and white gym socks, just what every broad jumper needs to complete his winning apparel.

PHYSICAL FITNESS FUN

PEOPLE HAVING FUN WHILE . . .

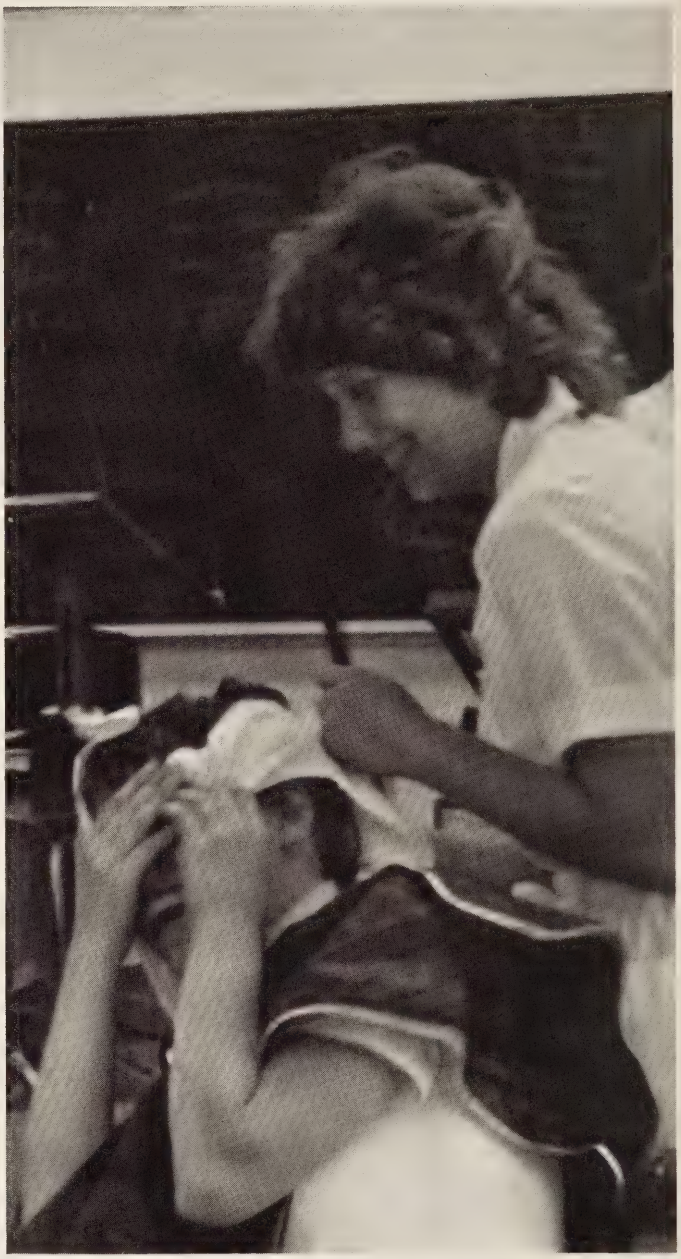


Chrissy Parker, Michelle Merrow, Scott Babcock and Lisa Bowling enjoy their trip to the library with Mr. Dunn's class.

During cosmetology, Nancy Satterwhite and Majesta McFadden have fun cutting each others hair.

Mrs. Lutz's child development students demonstrated what they had learned through their mock wedding.

On their way to winning their AA State Championship, Mr. Millhouse had his students run through marching executions during class.



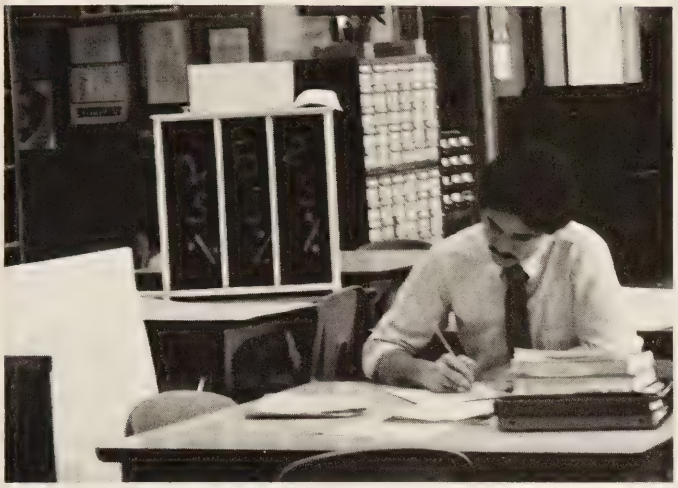
LEARNING THROUGH EXPERIENCE

Mario Wright and Holly Clothier gain experience in drafting by drawing "simulated" house plans.

Lisa Casey and Karen Goodin learn the different "tastes" of cheeses during International week.

TEACHERS HELPING STUDENTS

After a complex physic's experiment, Mrs. Fox tells her students where to put their eggs.



Seated amidst many math projects, Mr. Garvey, Mrs. Critchfield's student teacher, helps by grading them.

While measuring for the 50-yard dash, Mr. McCauley is aided by his gym students.

Surrounded by his drafting students, Mr. Perkins answers questions.

While demonstrating her geometry students' Easter bonnets, Mrs. Gratzick conceals her identity.

EXTRA CURRICULARS

Knights March To State Title

The Spotsylvania Marching Band capped their most successful season ever by capturing the VBODA-Class A East State championship. The band competed in five Virginia competitions. The band placed first in four, second in one and third in one. The horn line went undefeated, and the drum line, considered by many as one of the finest in the state regardless of class, met with only one setback, which they later avenged.

Summary of the Season

North Stafford Invitational-3rd band, 1st drums, 1st horns.

State Fair of VA-2nd band, 1st drums.

Thomas Dale Invitational-1st band, 1st drums, 1st horns

Tunstall Invitational-1st band, 2nd drums.

VBODA State Contest-1st band, 3rd colorguard.

Garmer Classic (N.C.)-1st band, 1st drums, 1st horns, 2nd flags, 2nd rifles.

During halftime, Rob Fabian solos on trumpet under the direction of David Buchanan.

The band performs at an outdoor pep rally for the student body.

Because of the band's numerous performances at competitions, parades, and football games, many hours are spent practicing in the hot August sun and cool autumn winds.

Carrying A Tune Throughout The Year

Besides the Marching Band, Mr. Millhouse successfully directed the Symphonic Band, which performed four concerts like this one throughout the year.

The Jazz Band also had a successful year as they performed at basketball games, pep rallies, concerts, and assemblies.

Taken behind the scene, Georgia Taylor and Robert Sawyer await their cue during a Symphonic Band performance.

Marching Band members display accurate timing in their marching patterns and musical notes.

An over view of the band reveals the different sections: the drum, woodwind, flag, and brass.

DEADLY MOVES

At a basketball pep rally, Chris Adam leads Drama Club members not to mourn the death of these cave explorers but instead to mourn the death of the Courtland Cougars.

YGSE sponsor Mrs. Tanner lines the path for YGSE members, like Tommy Brown, Holly Smith, David Cross, and Joey Cross, to make their way on a fall spelunking trip.

This dangerous and daring spelunking trip was only one of the exciting things the YGSE did. Other events included an auction and a trip to Inner Harbor in Baltimore.

Besides performing this skit for a school pep rally, the Drama Club attended many plays during the year and also sponsored a spring children's play.

GOING . . .

The YGSE went with the SCA by participating in the Homecoming Parade. Tammy Howell, Charlene Lewis, and Sharon Holmes ride on the float.

One of the largest events of the SCA is Homecoming. Homecoming includes spirit week, a bonfire, a parade, half time activities, and a dance. Here underclass attendants, Nicole Reynolds and Lisa Casey, ride in the parade with the princess Elizabeth Kriskovich.

The Girls' Basketball team even participated in an SCA event by marching with a spirit banner.

The French Club participated in the Homecoming Parade.

Junior attendant Towanna Purks rides in the parade with the Homecoming Queen Kim Deale.

Another big event for the SCA is preparing for the next year. As the 1983-84 president Orice Williams speaks to the student body, the candidates and campaign managers await to give their speeches.

. . . WITH THE SCA

Easter eggs are the object of interest at the NHS annual Easter egg hunt; here Theresa and Karen Goodin and Lauren Rutherford watch the children.

The cheerleaders work hard the whole year to perfect their entertainment skills. Above, they perform at a basketball game, and at the right they compete at a local cheerleader competition at Park & Shop.

The NHS entertains not only the student body but also hospital patients by dressing up at Halloween.

EXTRA CURRICULAR

The NHS public Easter egg hunt provides entertainment for all local children; here the two age groups count their eggs for more prizes.

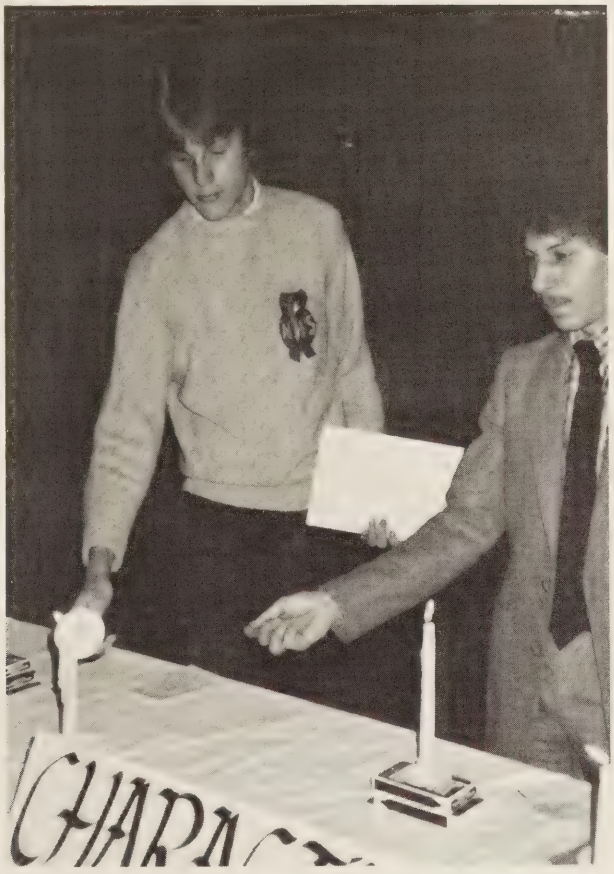
Students provide their own entertainment by participating in the various SCA sponsored dress up days. This day is "Halloween Dress-Up."

ENTERTAINMENT

The FBLA gives serious support to the football players before the Homecoming game by presenting them with a cake. Rita Williams, Tammy Reid, Amanda Seay, and Kim Ezzell represent the FBLA. Joe Petruzzo, Mike Mastin, and Wray Broughton represent the football players.

DECA created an accurate bulletin board here since all of our clubs and organizations need student support. DECA is a program which allows students to gain experience with business and marketing.

ON THE SERIOUS SIDE



The NHS also comes down to business in the spring when they induct new members. President Robert Sawyer inducts one new member, Gary Sundquist.

Mrs. Johnson really gets down to business while she and Miss Todd organize key chains that were sold by the Library Club.

The chorus settles down for a photo before another fine performance.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR POTPOURRI

Students "Go for it" with the SCA at their after the game dances during football season.

At the Homecoming Parade Kim Damewood, participant on the Drama Club float, displays the 1960's look to coincide with the Homecoming theme "Through the Years."

At the pep rally before the Spotsy-Courtland basketball game, the basketball players got a chance to stir up their energy by taking free hits with a wet sponge at Coach Dunn.

INDIVIDUALS

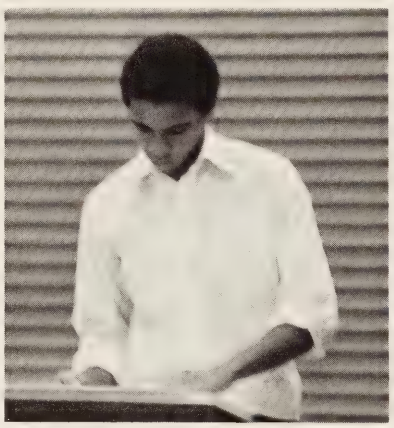
PUTTING PIECES TOGETHER

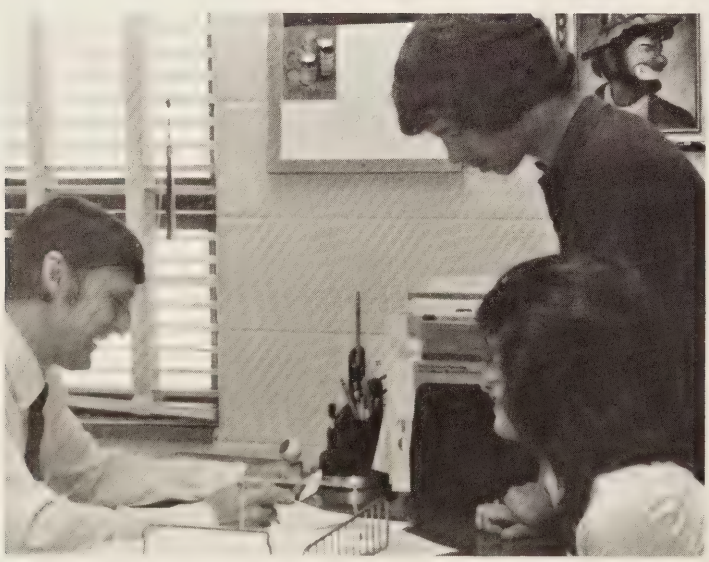
During our junior year we took our SAT's, looked at colleges, and talked to college and job representatives. Our senior year was the year to "put the pieces together." As the year began, we cautiously marked our calendars with the due dates for applications and testing dates. It was remarkable to see how fast our calendars filled.

Next we began to work on our applications. There were college as well as job applications. These applications consisted of personal information, academic information, and even included the answering of essay questions. By struggling, we all managed to make the deadlines.

By the end of the year, most of us had either been accepted at our colleges for admission in the fall or had lined up a job to begin after graduation. Either way, most of the members of the class of 1984 had successfully "put the pieces together," and as our graduation date approached, we eagerly awaited our days of freedom.

By taking a class in office assistance, Lisa Ware and Glenda Tyler are preparing themselves for a job after graduation.





Mr. Parady aids many students in "putting the pieces together." He helps them to choose and prepare for college. Bonnie Rees and Jack Weasley prepare for their future by learning to operate a printer.

WHAT IF . . .

-our football team won districts
-Pat Goodwyn was born without running shoes
-Mr. Gregory ran for President
-Holly Jett was only three feet tall
-Reggie Catlett did not own a tractor
-Mike Hannahs was born without a set of encyclopedias
-Willie Washington and Otis Byrd could not play basketball
-Julie Huff quit school and joined the Rolling Stones
-Brian Cree was class president
-Allison Clark was born a mute
-we had a senior trip
-Carol Rabke suffered from apathy
-Charlie Gentry was not in FFA
-we had not been plagued with student teachers
-Pam Garrison won the Nobel Peace Prize
-Sandra Hancock did not have long fingernails
-Susan Merrow wore normal jewelry
-we all failed our senior year

IF YOU'VE MADE IT AT 18, WHAT DO YOU DO FOR AN ENCORE?

When the class of 84' was a mere freshman class, you probably set goals that you hoped to have fulfilled by your senior year. Through the next three years you remembered those goals and worked toward them with a fervor. Now the much anticipated year, 1984, has arrived. Have you attained those goals that you worked so hard to fulfill? If so, you are probably happy to have reached your goals, but you are probably also experiencing a feeling of "What do I do now?"

The obvious solution is to set new goals, ones that give you a sense of purpose and direction in your life. Whether they are short-term, such as losing ten pounds, or long-term, such as graduating from college with honors, your goals should be thought of as a way to improve yourself and your self-confidence. Setting definite goals and attaining them, whether they are large or small, shows others and yourself that you are ambitious and serious about giving the world the best that you have.

Students who take vocational classes get an excellent opportunity to learn a trade skill in high school.

Because of a great basketball season in his senior year, Willie Washington's encore will come at VA Westland College. He received a grant from this college.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS . . .

Since we have finally graduated from Spotsylvania High School after many trying years, there are certain "things" each of us would like to leave the school so that our memory will carry on.

"If I could leave one 'thing' to the school, I would leave . . .
-Mrs. Kriskovich new gloves for dissecting cats."
(Holland Jett)

-a new basketball time clock."
(Donald Wheeler)

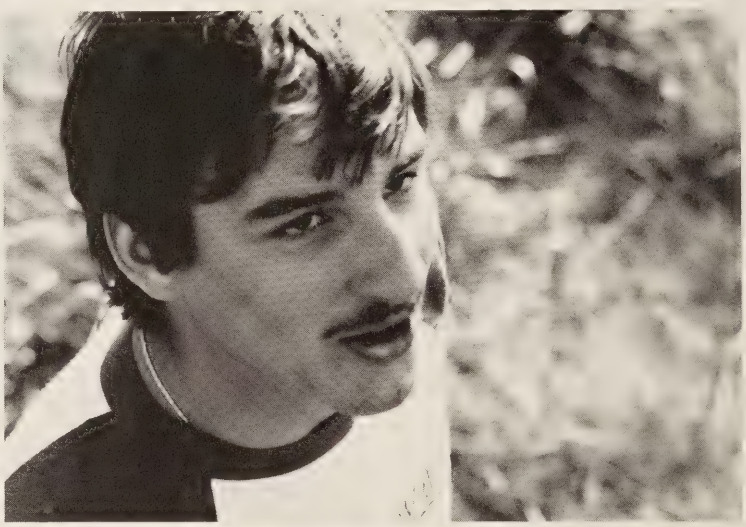
-new bathrooms for the football field."
(Kathy Sundquist)

-a tennis windscreen."
(Mike Lucas)

-my wit and knowledge to carry on."
(Mario Wright)

-my recognition."
(Otis Byrd)

-the pride of the Senior Class."
(Theresa Coyner)



Rob Fabian and Jaylene Duld share their "famous last words" from deep within a cavern. Ever wonder what baseball players have to say? Pete Bosen tells us. At the mock wedding, Mr. Campbell offers advice to Juliet Tyler, the bride.

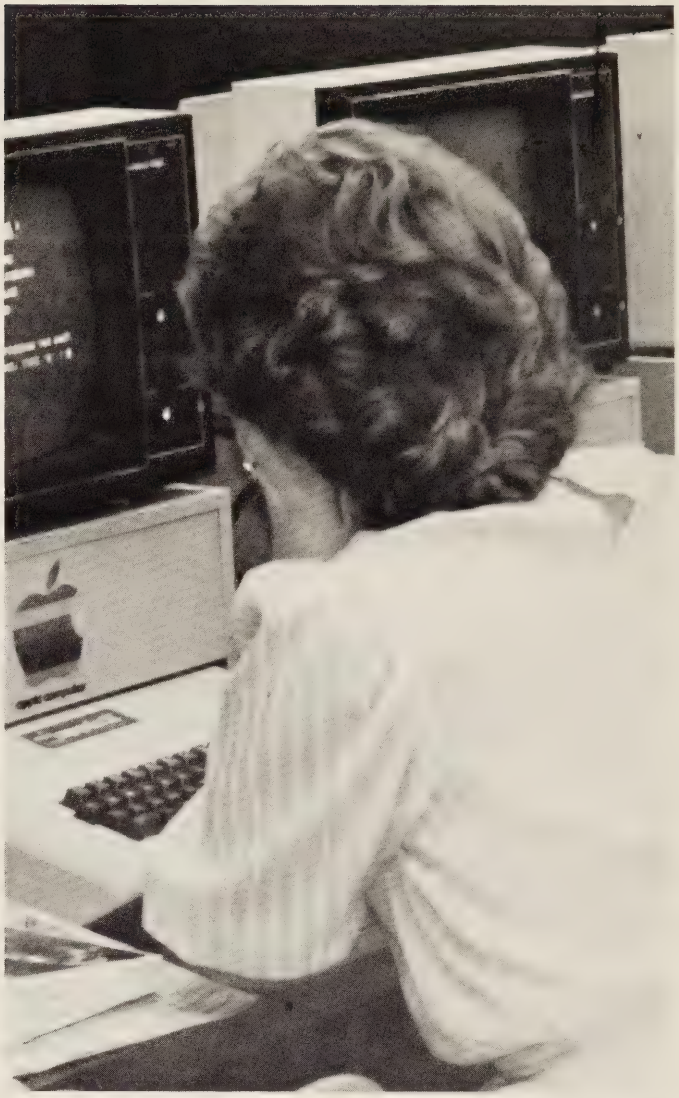
WE GOT SERIOUS

Senior year was not the time to sit back and relax when it came to school work. Instead, our last year of high school was the time to put an extra effort into every class. When we thought that we deserved an easy second semester because we had already been accepted into the college of our choice, we thought again. Many colleges threatened to quickly revoke our acceptance if our grades dropped in the second semester, and we might have had to take final exams in the spring. If we planned on working after graduation, goofing off was not to our advantage either. Many employers checked on potential employees by looking into their high school records. They focused mainly on senior grades as well as comments from our teachers and counselors. Thus, we kept working and trying our best in the last eighteen weeks of our high school life. The rewards were far greater than if we had slept through those memorable months.

-Julie Huff, even though she had a 3.8 grade average throughout high school, worked even harder in her senior year. Because of her efforts, she got accepted into one of the best colleges of science in the U.S.

-Because she worked hard in her office assistant class and made a high score on the Civil Service test, Redeema Syrkes was contacted by two government agencies for a job.



With the prospect of the REAL WORLD facing her, Teresa Powers buckles down and learns computer langauge.

Susie Tiskiewic knows that chemistry is a necessity for those seeking a higher education.

GREAT MOMENTS

Homecoming is a special event that many will cherish for a long time, especially Homecoming Queen Kim Deale.

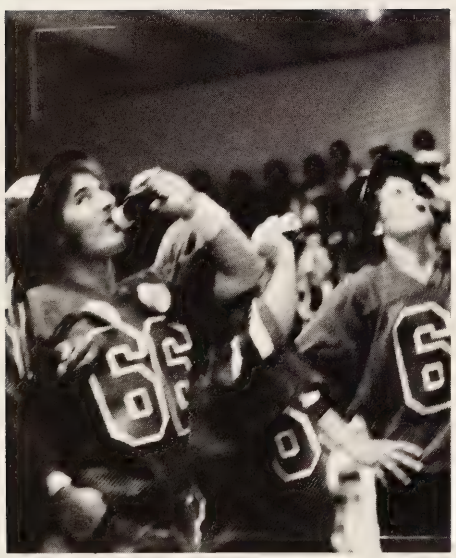
As the school year progresses, many things happen, especially in one's senior year. This is a major turning point in life; it's that step before we enter the real world. When a person is forty years of age, he's going to want to remember that night at the park or the picnic with that certain person. Listed below are a few of the cherished memories from your classmates . . .

-Donnie Wheeler: "The thrilling triumph of the awesome and astounding Spotsylvania Basketball Team . . . alias 'The Crew'."

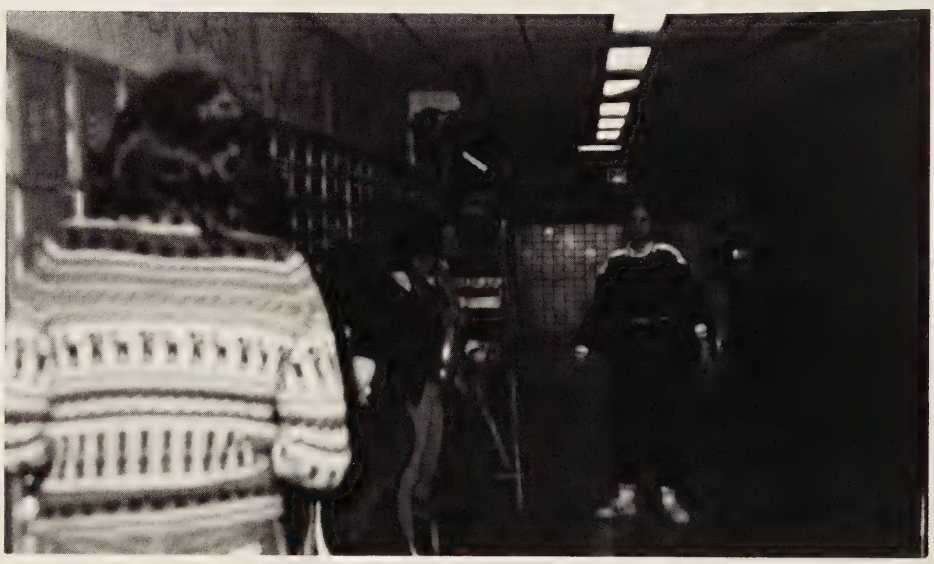
-Jaylene Duld: "Winning the state band competition."

-Sandra Hancock: "That last Friday of Easter break at Old Mill Park. All the mischief that everyone was up to, especially when that blue and white police car pulled over to that blue Firebird."

-Bridget Miller: "When all the seniors took their group pictures along with cap and gown pictures."



During a pep rally the football players see who can down their drink first.



Seniors add a "Touch of Class" to their hall as they decorate for the holidays.

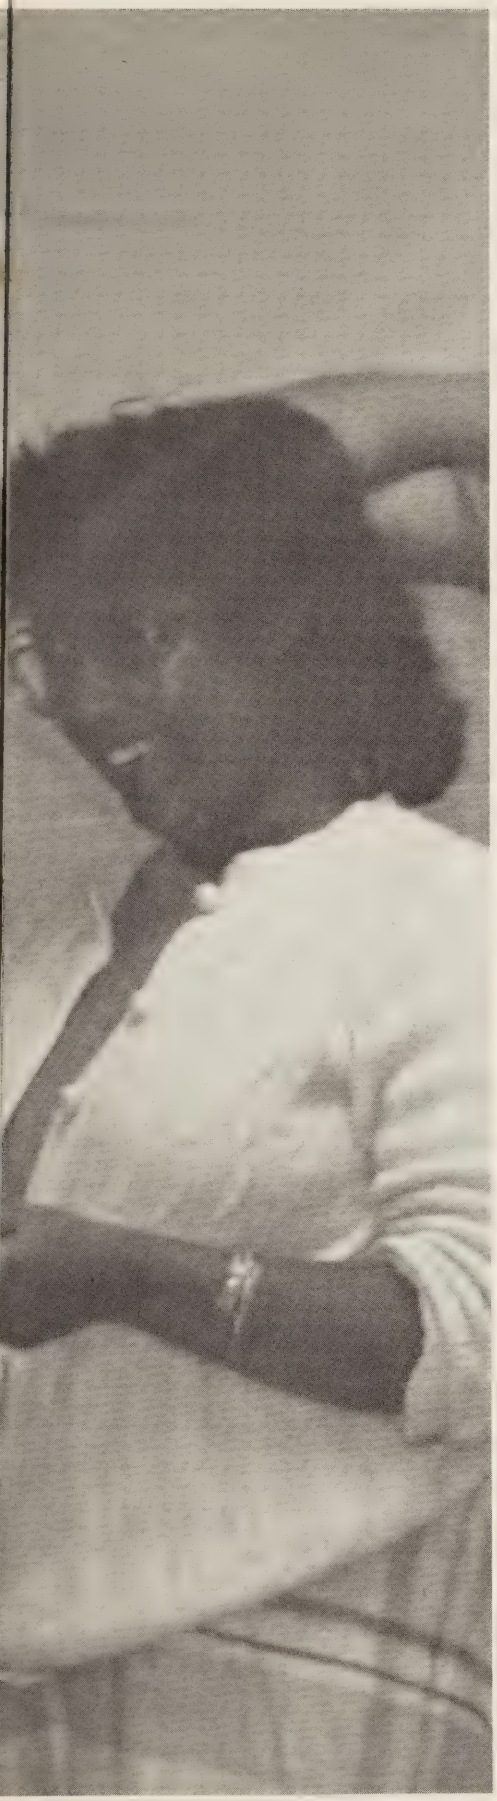
Because she pushed candy bars any chance she got, Terri McIntyre won first prize for selling the most bars for the Senior Class.



Does It Really Pay Off?

While attending high school, everyone seems to be pushed into selling something. By the time one gets into his senior year, pushing candy bars seems all part of the past. However, this is not true. Seniors tend to sell candy bars without stopping. There has not been a day this year when one could not find at least a few seniors faithfully toting M&M's or crunch bars to every class. This fund raising fervor is due to the fact that seniors need to raise enough money to have Graduation, Senior Banquet, Baccalaureate, and other such important events. For a considerable profit to result from such sales, those selling, as well as the teachers sponsoring the fund raising, must contribute much of their time and patience. This year a few of the fund raisers turned out to be a great help. One of our biggest projects has been the Wednesday morning donut sales. These sales have been so successful that when one comes to school on Wednesday mornings, he expects to be greeted with a warm smile and a delicious donut.

Many underclass persons do not realize the pressure a senior goes through, for not only is he asked to help his class by selling anything from food to tee-shirts to bumper stickers, but he also must remember to order essential senior items such as his cap and gown and his announcements.

Therefore, seniors can have a great year only with the entire school's help. The Class of 1984 couldn't have done it alone. Thanks for supporting us and helping to make it a successful year.

Sandra Hancock helps sell donuts for the Senior Class.

Juniors

Tammy Bailey works hard in the mall to earn her extra spending money.

Amy Benton wraps with the customers during the Christmas Season.

Sheronda Rock appears to enjoy her job at Chick-Fil-A.

By the time you get to be a junior, it is your option to work. While the overwhelming reason for working may be to earn extra money, a job also offers experience in working with people and in the business world. Most working juniors have food related jobs such as waitressing, bagging groceries, or working in fast food restaurants. The luckier ones find jobs relating to a career; for example, veterinarian assistants or lab technicians.

Working is a two-sided game; it has advantages as well as disadvantages. When you work, not only will you have extra money to spend on your car or date, but you will also have a sense of independence. Because of your job, you will meet new friends that you might never have met in school or through your other friends. There is, however, a bad side to working. Even though you might enjoy your job, it still becomes monotonous at times. Your work also gives you less time to devote to studying and homework, two things which are imperative if you wish to get good grades.

The decision to work must be carefully considered. Only you know if having a job will be worth the effort and the extra money.

Juniors, Susan Enfinger and Todd Coleman, use their driving skills on a motorcycle.

An exciting aspect of your junior year is that you begin driving. Although driving has many advantages, it also involves many risks. To clearly cover these good and bad points, we put the question to an eleventh grade English class. The following are examples of their comments:

Charles Poindexter - You get to go places that your parents wouldn't be caught, but you could be killed in the process.*

Thomas Powell - You don't have to beg for rides, but it costs to keep the car going.*

Missy Meade - There's a sense of freedom in being able to go places and do things on your own, but there's always the chance of being injured in an accident.*

David Gallahan - When school lets out, you can take your own time leaving. You don't have to carry your books or listen to other people talking on the bus. However, it costs money to support a vehicle.*

Sonia Lael - You get to go bye-bye without Ma and Pa.*

Regina Weatherholtz - It scares me when I think about all the drunk drivers on the road.*

This hand displays a class ring.

Kim Conklin wears her man's ring.

The beginning of the school year is an exciting time for the juniors. This is when they are faced with the option of purchasing a high school class ring. A class ring can reveal anything from their graduating year to their extracurricular activities. When the juniors receive their class rings, they will probably follow the good luck tradition of turning the ring to equal the number of their graduating year. This good luck charm dictates that the ring must not be removed until these turns have been completed. It is also necessary that each turn of the ring be made in the direction of the pinky finger. The first of these turns must be made by the junior's best friend, and the last must be made by that special someone.

For some juniors this class ring will only be another piece of jewelry. To others it will be a symbol of their accomplishments and their school pride.

SOPHOMORES

As Reggie Smith said in his pre-exam assembly, most people think the only reason students come to school is to get an education. When someone mentions the word "education," the first thing that comes to mind is homework. Let me shed some light on the situation. As sophomores you have two years left in your high school career to be educated. You have the choice to look at them as homework years or as fun years.

FUN! FUN! FUN!

By "fun years" I do not mean a year full of no homework or tests but rather a year where you realize that education is not all homework. Education, in a fun sense, means that the State is providing you with an opportunity to meet new friends, try your luck at sports, and to participate in many other activities through clubs and scholastic achievements. What do you say? Give it a try. It will make "education" more fun, and after all, it is FREE!

SOPHOMORE EXCITEMENT

When you were a freshman, high school seemed new and exciting. As a junior, you got your class ring and got to attend the Prom. As a senior, you not only attended the Prom, but you also attended the Senior Banquet. Then that big day arrived, Graduation. Even though your sophomore year may not have sounded as exciting as your other three years, there were a lot of exciting times and special moments. Here are some sophomores' ideas on the most exciting aspects of tenth grade.

-Lauren Rutherford: ". . . knowing I'm halfway through."

-Joanne Pizarro: ". . . being a part of the SCA and sharing the student body's excitement on the basketball team's path to become district champions."

-Lisa Sperry: ". . . planning sophomore activities, getting my license, and not being a freshman!"

-Devin Chewning: ". . . knowing two years have passed and only two more await."

DO YOU HAVE SCHOOL "BURN-OUT"?

If at some point in your sophomore year you become bored with school, tired of homework and generally depressed, you are probably suffering from school "burn-out." Because this "Sophomore Slump" could result in a decline of your grades, you should try to remedy it as soon as possible. The following are some suggestions to overcome the dreaded school "burn-out":

1. Make a list of all assigned homework every day.

2. Estimate the amount of time needed to complete each assignment. This will help you to see how much of your evening will be spent doing homework and how much free time you will have.

3. Compose a list of the things you want to accomplish after school such as doing homework, practicing a sport, or watching a favorite television program.

4. Always give yourself some free time so that your mind can rest from conjugating verbs or learning theorems. Such a rest keeps your school "burn-out" from recurring.

By following the above list (or one of your own versions), you can not only conquer the "Sophomore Slump," but you can also learn how to organize your time efficiently. You could have a few extra hours each week to call your own.

"Sophomore Slump" can attack anyone, even Joe Wilson, who uses his lunch period to rest.

One way to conquer sophomore "burn-out" is to become involved in extracurricular activities, as do Darren Quinn, Joanne Pizarro, and Bob Jennings.

HOW FRESHMEN GOT INVOLVED

Your first year of high school was quite different from intermediate school. All of a sudden you were in HIGH SCHOOL. Perhaps your best friends had a completely different schedule than you, and you felt as though you didn't know exactly what to do. But you didn't withdraw and convince yourself that it would absolutely be the worst year of your life. Instead, you made an effort to make new friends.

-Carl Gentry: "I played in FFA basketball."

-Kelly Hillstrom: "I go to all sports' events, and I am an SCA representative."

-Stacie Embry: "I participated in colorguard."

-Terri Shrout: "I like being around people and doing fun and interesting things."

-Rodney White: "I played football and baseball."

-Christine Goodwin: "I played hockey."

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT FIRST DAY?

I remember my first day of high school . . . I stepped off the bus and immediately wanted to get back on and go home. I had never realized how many hallways, stairways, and rooms Spotsylvania High School had within its walls. It took me twenty minutes just to find my homeroom. At the end of two weeks, I had successfully memorized my locker combination and my class schedule.

My first homecoming was really special. I will always remember the excitement I felt at the bonfire and the pep rally. The dance turned out to be more fun than I had ever imagined.

In the spring I decided to try my luck at track. After the season, I vowed never to torture my poor feet again; however, the spring held more than agony because I was finally outgrowing the label of "you're only a freshman." There were so many things to do and try. The next thing I knew, it was time to be studying for my exams and saying good-bye to my new friends . . .

As I gradually come back to reality, my eyes begin to focus on the geography notebook lying in front of me. I realize that I need to be studying for Ms. Powell's exam instead of recollecting my freshman year.

P.S.
At least now I know I am not "only a freshman" anymore!

BREAK TRADITION

At the intermediate level the eighth grader dreams of high school and imagines himself in the standard alligator shirt, Levi's, and white leather Nikes with a red swoosh. Oh, but how the fashions change. Now, students are wearing long overcoats with neatly arranged buttons down the front. "These add to the style," says one student.

Frequently students feel that when they get into high school, they should have a "NEW and IMPROVED" wardrobe. However, these students tend to realize, as school goes on, that styles change. In many high schools the "prep look" has faded away only to reveal the more daring and colorful "punk look." Keeping up with these changes becomes an extremely hard job for fashion conscious freshmen. They soon discover that styles change as fast as the high school years fly by.

ORGANIZE, ORGANIZE

As students start to achieve their goals, they tend to realize the importance of study habits; therefore, we asked a group of students the following question: "With the greater amount of work in high school, what did you find to be your best study habit?" These were a few of the responses:

-Larry Nelson: "Do all my homework as soon as I get home."

-Mike Schiller: "I study longer and harder."

-Elaine Harris: "I write down all my assignments."

Since these ideas helped these students with their studies, perhaps they will benefit you also.

A Tribute to Stephanie

Yesterday we heard you laugh
And saw your smiling face,
Today you are sweetly smiling
And in a brand new place.

For you have gone to heaven
And this we surely know,
Forever you'll be with us
Everywhere we go.

Your kind and gentle heart stopped beating,
You closed your eyes to rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us
That he only takes the best.

You bid no one a last farewell
or even said goodbye,
You were gone before we knew it,
Only God knows why.

George didn't sleep here . . . but you can.

The Fredericksburg Colonial Inn was not built when George Washington kissed his mother goodbye and went off to become President of the United States, but that hasn't stopped us from furnishing our rooms with huge, solid wood, queen-size beds of the Colonial period, marble-topped wash stands, and original prints and oil paintings from America's earliest days.

At the Inn, we remember Fredericksburg's place in history, but we also realize that it is the 1980's. Along with some of the finest antiques in the area, we have equipped each room with a refrigerator, color TV and clock radio.

Step back into history . . . with comfort . . . at the Fredericksburg Colonial Inn.
